My dear Miss Eustis:

In reference to your article "The All Seeing Eye" which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post of Nov. 5th, is of great interest to me so that is the reason why I take the liberty to address this letter to you.

I have often thought of this solution for the blind but have never heard of it being put to a practical use before, of course there are a few cases throughout the United States realizing that if handled in the proper manner and supervised correctly this would be quite a help to the blind of our country. I would appreciate very much if you would be kind enough to give me more information upon this matter and if you would give me the address of this school in Germany, or of any trainer in this country who might have any thing similar as I should like very much to forward this work in this country, as three and a half years ago at the age of sixteen I was deprived of my sight and know from practical experience what rehabilitation means and what it means to be dependent upon a paid helper who are unsympathetic and not interested in their work and do not appreciate kindness as shown to them and as you well know that there are many throughout the land who not even have paid attendants.

I should like very much to be able to express my personal thanks and appreciation for the way in which you handle and put your message across. It touched those in my condition more knowing that what you said was near the real truth and I do believe that ~~this~~ gave the seeing public a very good idea of the situation and I hope it will help the public to come to a more clearer understanding as we do not require sympathy but a laughing word and a pat upon the back, kindly excuse me for rambling on in this manner but in my feeble way I am trying to give you the thanks you deserve.

Thanking you in advance for any information you may be able to let me have.

I remain sincerely yours,
