In 1929 in Nashville, chicken was selling for 42 cents a pound, a half-gallon of milk could be had for 28 cents, and a cup of coffee cost a nickel. The city’s streets were teeming not only with Model A Fords but also with horse-drawn carts and electric streetcars. Men wore suits and women wore dresses, and everyone wore hats. It was a very different time.

And there was one sight that was new at the time but is quite familiar now – blind men and women being guided by Seeing Eye® dogs.

It was 85 years ago that The Seeing Eye was founded in Nashville, Tennessee. Morris Frank, the first man to be teamed with a Seeing Eye dog, had to travel to Dorothy Harrison Eustis’s dog training facility in Switzerland to be matched with Buddy and to be trained in how to work with a guide dog. He promised Dorothy that he’d return to America and start a school here, to give other people the same independence that he now enjoyed with Buddy. And on January 29, 1929, he kept that promise as The Seeing Eye, Inc., opened for business.

Much has changed over the last 85 years. We’ve innovated in ways that our founders could have only imagined – advances in genetics and screening to all but eliminate hip dysplasia, megaesophagus, and progressive retinal atrophy in our breeding stock; the use of new methods such as clicker training to teach dogs to “nose” a door knob or pedestrian crossing button; and moved from a $15 a month rented office to a beautiful 60-acre campus in Morristown, New Jersey, with a newly renovated Main House and its own American Animal Hospital Association-accredited canine hospital.

But we’re still following the same advice that our instructors offered those first students: Praise your dog, trust your dog, and love your dog!

The Seeing Eye dog of today is a much different animal than what we used in 1929. Our dogs in 1929 were wonderful dogs, renowned for their intelligence, loyalty, and gentle nature. Imagine what 85 years of selective breeding, careful screening, and innovative training have accomplished!

As a donor to The Seeing Eye, you have made all of this possible. Your generous support enables remarkable men and women to come from across the United States and Canada to be matched with these amazing dogs. They are lawyers and artists; professors and students; factory workers and stay-at-home parents. But they all want what Morris did – enhanced independence. Thanks to you, The Seeing Eye will be here to provide that enhanced independence for another 85 years and beyond.

Sincerely,

James A. Kutsch, Jr., President & CEO, The Seeing Eye
The Seeing Eye Heritage Society was founded in 1989 to recognize and honor those individuals who have taken the important step of including a legacy gift to The Seeing Eye in their financial portfolios or estate plans. Members of The Heritage Society have recognized the importance of the continuation of our work with people who are blind and visually impaired and have expressed a commitment to that end by planning a gift which will help provide for the future success of the school.

Legacy gifts make up a large portion of the donations received by The Seeing Eye each year, for which we are most grateful. Gifts of this nature secure the future of our mission, providing ongoing services to our graduates and new students.

It is very possible that you are eligible for membership in The Heritage Society, but haven’t let us know. If you have created a bequest in your will or trust, or named The Seeing Eye as beneficiary of a charitable trust, a retirement plan, or a life insurance policy, you are eligible to become a member of The Heritage Society! We want very much to be able to say “thank you” and include you in The Heritage Society events.

Please take a moment to inform us of your intention by calling 973-539-4425 x1735 or email donate@seeingeye.org.

26 members of the Heritage Society who wish to remain anonymous

Across these pages you will see the names of those individuals who have informed us of their extraordinary commitment to enhancing the independence, dignity, and self-confidence of people who are blind through the use of Seeing Eye® dogs by providing for The Seeing Eye in their estate plans. Thank you!
Dear Seeing Eye:

In 1932, I wished to make a donation to The Seeing Eye.

My dad drove me (10 years old) with my carefully saved gift to Morristown from Montclair. Here I met Morris Frank and Buddy. We visited the living quarters, toured the kennels, and I offered my small donation consisting of many silver dollars and crumpled bills. A silver dollar fell to the floor, but Mr. Frank stopped me. “Buddy will get it,” he said, and soon the awkward slippery silver dollar was in Mr. Frank’s hand. I was so delighted and thrilled.

Many anonymous gifts have been made over the following years as I have marveled at your amazing skill assisting people who are blind. My support will always be there, perhaps smaller as I age but always heartfelt.

My husband, Richard Oakley, died September 11, 2013, at the age of 91, so I am sending this donation in his name. Thank you for all that you do.

Shirley M. Oakley

Dear Seeing Eye:

The biggest lesson I’ve learned from my experiences as a Seeing Eye puppy raiser is that one gesture could help someone unknown to me who is in need. For about 16 months, I teach basic commands that will help the puppy succeed at The Seeing Eye, where she will experience formal training. The lesson that I have learned from working with Seeing Eye puppies applies to any charitable work. Any gesture, big or small, could help someone if you just take the time to do it.

Among the most special moments of my puppy raiser experience was receiving Wisty’s letter of acceptance from The Seeing Eye. I keep a picture of her, full of confidence in her harness, on my desk to remind me that dedication and hard work do pay off. While it is a pleasure to have a furry friend roaming the house all hours of the day, the true fulfillment comes from the end result: making the life of another person better.

If I combine the traits of the puppies I raised – the loyalty of Pepper, the calm of Wisty, the maturity of Irene, the warmth of Ulla, the spirit of Rose, and the persistence of Xana – I might find just the right kind of success in college, and in life, with a passion for learning, contributing, and growing every day. Thank you, The Seeing Eye, for giving me these lifelong gifts.

Julia Chirls

Dear Seeing Eye:

For her seventh birthday this year, my daughter Kathryn wanted to get the American Girl’s service dog, named Chocolate Chip. We talked to her about service dogs and how they help people with disabilities, including several friends of ours in the Columbus and Toledo areas.

We also talked about Candie. My wife Enjie Wu, now Hall, had a Seeing Eye dog named Candie. She was an integral part of our family, even playing the dual role of flower girl and ring bearer at our wedding. She retired to Grandma’s house where our children played with her and Candie basked on the couch in her last years.

Inspired by Candie and Chocolate Chip, Kathryn asked her friends to donate to The Seeing Eye instead of bringing presents to her party. The money enclosed is in honor of Kathryn’s birthday, and also in memory of Candie, to go to the Pennies for Puppies® program.

Russell B. Hall
Morris Frank was the first man to be teamed with a Seeing Eye dog, but he wasn’t the first graduate of The Seeing Eye. That’s because Frank and Buddy were partnered in Switzerland in 1927 — and The Seeing Eye was still just a dream shared by Frank and Dorothy Harrison Eustis.

Two years later, on January 29, 1929, The Seeing Eye became a reality as it was issued a certificate of incorporation. Frank, now the managing director of The Seeing Eye, Inc., reported to Eustis that he had rented an office in the Fourth and First National Bank Building in Nashville, Tennessee, for $15 a month. Frank also bought two desks, four chairs, and a coat tree for another $15. The Seeing Eye was now in business. This would be the home of The Seeing Eye for its first two years, before moving to New Jersey in 1931.

And four days later, on February 2, the first two students would arrive to meet their dogs — both German shepherds. (We began training other breeds within a few years.)

Dr. Howard Buchanan of Monmouth, Illinois, had been scheduled to follow in Frank’s footsteps, literally, by being trained at Fortunate Fields, Eustis’s dog training facility in Switzerland. But an illness forced him to cancel that trip. Now he was in Nashville to train with instructors Jack Humphrey, Adelaide Clifford, and Willi Ebeling. He would be matched with Gala, the dog that had been trained for him in Switzerland.

“The first day I was home, I went out with Gala alone and we went to nine different places,” Buchanan said. “This is the first time since my blindness that I have been able to go when and where I pleased without asking some member of my family or a friend to go with me.”
Dr. Raymond V. Harris of Savannah, Georgia, was matched with Tartar, another Fortunate Fields dog that Eustis described in a letter to Frank as a very beautiful dog.

A month later, the second class — already up to six people — would begin training in Nashville. Among their number was Blanche Eddy of Berkeley, California, the first woman to be matched with a Seeing Eye dog. Her German shepherd, Beta, was the first dog trained by Ebeling, a German businessman living in New Jersey who had retired at the age of 46 and enjoyed breeding and showing German shepherds. He would serve as the organization’s executive vice president until 1953, and after his retirement, remained on the Board of Trustees until his death in 1961.

These members of the second class were encouraged with a telegram from Harris, reading:

You are about to start the most enjoyable journey of your darkness. My experience assures you that you may place implicit confidence in your instructors and confidence and faith in your dogs. Life’s pathway is strewn with many pitfalls and dangers, but your dog will successfully negotiate for you all of these and protect you at all times. Let your watchwords be courage and perseverance. Thank God, the Great Master, for The Seeing Eye, and your instructors.

Frank and Buddy, followed by Buchanan and Gala and Harris and Tartar, were the first Seeing Eye teams; over the next 85 years, The Seeing Eye created more than 16,000 teams, and today there are graduates living in all 50 states and across Canada. But it all began on the streets of Nashville, with a Gala…and a Tartar.

85th Anniversary Gala

And as we started with a Gala, it only seems appropriate that we celebrate our 85th birthday with one! On Friday, May 16, The Seeing Eye will hold an 85th Anniversary Gala on our campus in Morristown, New Jersey. Tickets are $350 and attire is “business/cocktail.”

For more information, please contact Tracy Crimmins at tcrimmins@seeingeye.org or call 973-539-4425 ext. 1751.
The Seeing Eye has about 150 on-campus volunteers – roughly as many volunteers as full-time staff! These volunteers do a number of tasks on and off campus, from helping to care for the dogs to providing clerical support to office staff; from helping with our online auction to delivering puppies!

On September 26, The Seeing Eye thanked its volunteers with a reception held on campus. All volunteers were invited to attend, and gifts were presented to those who have been volunteering for 1, 5, 10, 15, and in the case of Jack Strangfeld, 20 years of service.

“We could not do all that we do at The Seeing Eye without our volunteers,” Seeing Eye President & CEO Jim Kutsch said.

The Seeing Eye also recognized the 2013 Volunteer of the Year: Lynn Geczi. The resident of Clark, New Jersey, is a volunteer in the Puppy Development Department. She also is the mother of Seeing Eye instructor Kim Geczi. She’s been volunteering since 2006.

“We belong to the Essex County Puppy Club, and one of the leaders, Janet Keeler, had been volunteering for The Seeing Eye for years,” Lynn explained. “And in talking to her about it, I thought… ’I love The Seeing Eye… why don’t I do that?’ So I did! And I truly love volunteering. I really enjoy being there.”

“We call her the ghost, because I just leave something for her to do before I leave, and when I come in the next morning it’s magically done,” said Kathy Daly, the Linda Feinne-Roth Manager of Puppy Development. “She’s in here at the crack of dawn, running copies, checking inventory, putting together puppy raiser kits – whatever needs to get done, she’ll do it.”

The puppy raiser kits are provided to both returning and new puppy raiser families, Daly explained.

“We have 500 puppies going out every year. That’s a lot of kits!” Daly said. “Before we had Lynn, the coordinators had to do it themselves, and it was just so time consuming. Lynn’s help means they can spend more time out in the field with the puppy raiser families, which is where we need them to be.”

The Geczi family also has raised 21 puppies, beginning in 1996, and they are currently raising a seven-month-old German shepherd named Ernie.

A History of Support
The Seeing Eye Thanks Its Long-Term Donors

What are you still doing today that you were doing in 2003?

More than 1,600 people have been doing one thing all those years – supporting The Seeing Eye! We looked at our donor database and were elated to discover just how many donors have been giving to us each and every year. And more than 100 have been giving every year for 20 years or more!

Gordon and Thelma Hill of Wrightwood, California, have been giving to The Seeing Eye since 1988 – every year for 25 consecutive years.

Thelma explained that she knows from personal experience just how valuable a Seeing Eye dog can be to a person who is blind or visually impaired – her sister, Anne Laurel, is now teamed with her third Seeing Eye dog, a black Lab/golden retriever cross named Anya.

“I know how much freedom my sister has with her Seeing Eye dog, and how important it is to her life,” Thelma said. “We could never repay The Seeing Eye for what you’ve done for her.”

Thelma said she and her husband also adopted a dog from The Seeing Eye, a German shepherd named Dottie. “We had her for seven years, and she was the most wonderful dog,” Thelma recalled. “She couldn’t work because she was animal distracted. Well, we live up here in the San Gabriel Mountains where there aren’t any cars to worry about, so she could spend all day running up and down the hillsides chasing squirrels and having a wonderful time.”

The Hills also are members of the Heritage Society, meaning they have provided for The Seeing Eye in their estate plans.

“We love The Seeing Eye. It is a terrific organization,” Thelma said. “Dogs are wonderful creatures, and they really do help people.”

Dorothy’s Legacy
The first donor to The Seeing Eye, of course, was Dorothy Harrison Eustis.

Dorothy was a wealthy woman, having inherited money from her father, Charles Custis Harrison, a sugar refinery owner, noted philanthropist, and provost of the University of Pennsylvania; and her first husband, Walter Wood Jr., a businessman and local politician who died of an illness after they’d been married just nine years.

She not only poured much of her own money into The Seeing Eye – buying the school’s first home in Whippany for $30,000 in 1931, more than $450,000 in today’s dollars – but also tirelessly raised funds on the organization’s behalf. In just 10 short years, The Seeing Eye’s endowment grew from $43,000 in 1933 to more than $1 million in 1943. Even then, The Seeing Eye knew that a healthy endowment was the key to the school’s future – it ensures that the school will be here when students return for subsequent Seeing Eye dogs, able to weather economic downturns.

The Seeing Eye is now in the midst of a five-year, $10 million capital campaign to raise funds for the endowment. We are more than halfway to our goal! If you would like to donate, contact Susan Ullmann in the Donor and Public Relations Department at (973) 539-4425.
A Selfless Act of Love
For Sue Maya, raising puppies is a family tradition

Sue Maya grew up raising puppies for The Seeing Eye. And now, more than 30 years later, she’s given that experience to her own children.

“You put your heart and soul into loving these dogs, and there are some tears when you give them up,” Sue said. “But honestly, I work in Morristown, so I get to see a lot of these puppies when they get matched with new students. I get more choked up seeing that — seeing what they are going to do for someone who needs them — than I do when I give them up. I saw a young lady, probably with her first Seeing Eye dog, walking down the street with such grace and confidence that I had to pull over because I was bawling so hard. As a mother, seeing that girl and how beautifully she was working with that dog, my hope is that every puppy I raise will be able to do that for someone.”

Sue raised three Seeing Eye puppies as a child for The Seeing Eye; now, along with her husband Willie and their two children, she’s raised three more.

Her 15-year-old son, Wilson, has raised two puppies, both yellow Labrador retrievers — one named Dan, the other Boss. Both successfully completed training and are now working with Seeing Eye graduates!

“It’s hard work, but it’s definitely worth it,” Wilson said. “It’s an incredible feeling to know that this dog you raised is going to do something good for someone else.”

Allyson, 12, is raising her first Seeing Eye dog, a 9-month-old golden retriever named Bay. Sometime in the next three to six months, Bay will return to The Seeing Eye for an evaluation, and if he passes, begin training to become a Seeing Eye dog.

“It’s going to be hard to give him up,” Allyson said. “I know I’ll be upset, but I also know it is for a good cause.”

Crnkovich Elected Chairman of Seeing Eye Board

Peter N. Crnkovich, Senior Adviser of Morgan Stanley, has been elected Chairman of The Seeing Eye’s Board of Trustees. Crnkovich, who was first elected a trustee of the Morristown school in 2003, had been serving as Vice Chairman since 2009.

“I’m proud to help lead The Seeing Eye in its mission to enhance the dignity and independence of people who are blind and visually impaired through the use of our amazing Seeing Eye® dogs,” Crnkovich said.

The resident of Madison, N.J., served as chairman of Morgan Stanley’s Global Healthcare Industry Investment Banking Practice and has a B.S. from Georgetown University and an M.B.A. from the Stanford Graduate School of Business.

Crnkovich succeeds past Chairman Dr. Lewis M. Chakrin of Mendham, N.J., dean of the Anisfield School of Business at Ramapo College of New Jersey, who had served the maximum permitted term as Chairman but will remain on the Board of Trustees. Dr. Margaret E. L. (Peggi) Howard of Whitehouse Station, N.J., Vice President of Administration and University Relations at Drew University, was elected Vice Chair. These new officers join three officers who were re-elected: Vice Chair Thomas Duffy of Franklin Lakes, N.J.; Secretary Julie Carroll of Falls Church, Va.; and Treasurer Robert Hamwee of New Vernon, N.J.

In addition, two people were recently elected to the Board of Trustees: Ari Benacerraf of New York, N.Y., senior managing director of Amulet Capital/Diamond Castle Holdings, and Steve Pangere of Crown Point, Ind., President and CEO of The Pangere Corporation of Gary, Ind. Pangere is a graduate of The Seeing Eye, having been matched with his first Seeing Eye dog, a black Labrador/golden retriever cross named Hope, in 2010.

DUSTY’S LAW PASSES IN NEW JERSEY

In July 2010, a Seeing Eye puppy was mauled by an unrestrained dog in New Jersey. The puppy, a German shepherd named Dusty, survived the attack but was unable to enter the training program due to the attack.

For the past four years, The Seeing Eye has been working toward Dusty’s Law, which would make killing, injuring, or interfering with a service animal or service animal in training (including puppies being raised to be guide dogs) a criminal offense in New Jersey. Not only would this mean stricter penalties if people (or their dogs) attack guide dogs, but by making it a crime, police would respond to such incidents. In the past, such incidents would usually be referred to animal control officers, who typically aren’t available during off hours, and often didn’t have the resources to investigate the attack or render assistance to a guide dog user whose dog may be unable to work. The effort to get the law passed was led by Dusty’s puppy raiser, Roger Woodhour, and Seeing Eye volunteer Ginger Kutsch.

Dusty’s Law was passed by the Assembly and Senate and signed in January by New Jersey Governor Chris Christie.

Prepare To Bid!

We will once again be holding our online auction this spring, beginning April 23 and ending May 2. We are currently accepting item donations, such as new (or unique) items, gift baskets, sports tickets, or gift certificates. We also are looking for companies that would like to sponsor the auction.

If you have an item to donate, or if your company would be interested in sponsoring the auction, please contact Sara Meehan at smeehan@seeingeye.org, call (973) 539-4425 ext 1736, or visit www.seeingeye.org/auction.
Thanks for leading the way.
